

1. Explain the difference between a primary and a secondary source.
A primary source is a document or artifact that provides first-hand information about a topic. It is created by someone who was directly involved in the events or is a contemporary of the events. Examples include diaries, letters, photographs, and original research papers.
A secondary source is a document or artifact that provides information about a topic, but it is not a first-hand account. It is created by someone who is not directly involved in the events and is often based on primary sources. Examples include textbooks, review articles, and documentaries.
