1. The first part of the document is a title page. It contains the title of the document, the author's name, and the date of the document. The title is "The White Tail", the author is "John G. Thompson", and the date is "1911".

The second part of the document is a long, detailed description of the deer. It describes the deer's appearance, its behavior, and its habitat. The description is written in a formal, scientific style. The author, John G. Thompson, is a naturalist and a collector of birds and mammals. He has written several books on the history of life in North America. The document is a scientific paper, and it is intended for a professional audience. The title, "The White Tail", is a common name for the species, and it is used throughout the document. The author's name, John G. Thompson, is also used throughout the document. The date, 1911, is the year when the document was written. The document is a valuable source of information about the white-tailed deer, and it is a good example of scientific writing.
